

Dr. Christenson is the founder and president of the Project Management Centre of Excellence Inc. He is a Certified Management Consultant and Project Management Professional specializing in project management consulting and training. He combines an extensive academic background with real-world expertise in the areas of program and portfolio management, organizational development, change management and critical project success factors. He's held project management leadership positions in the public and private sectors.

Dale has a Doctorate in Project Management from Royal MIT University in Australia and holds undergraduate and graduate degrees, diplomas and certificates in Criminology, Counseling Psychology and Project Management. Dale has 12 peer reviewed journal articles to his credit and is a frequent seminar and keynote speaker at conferences. He is the winner of the Project Management Institute's (PMI) Government Project of the Year Award, a finalist in the Canadian Institute of Public Administration Leadership Award and winner of the 2010 Schulich Teaching Award. He has also served as the President on his local PMI chapter in Victoria British Columbia as well as being the Knowledge Lead for PMI's international Government Community of Practice. Lastly, Dale is the President of the Vancouver Island CMC Chapter.

Dale currently provides a wide variety of project leadership and management training and consulting services across North America.