

Steve is a rangeland Agrologist and plant taxonomist with 15 years experience in the field. Steven specializes in management of native ecosystems including rangeland management planning, rare species surveys, weed inventories, wetland surveys, ELC mapping, restoration planning and management, scientific research, monitoring programs and education.

Steven is currently Chief of Science, Foothills Fescue Research Institute, a special faculty advisor for Guelph University, and President of Tannas Conservation Services Ltd. Steven has won the Emerald Award (2002) along with numerous other university awards.